

Amanda White

- Coach
- Consultant
- Facilitator

Described by her clients as:

- Collaborative Working in partnership with her clients
- Knowledgeable With 25 years' consulting experience behind her
- Pragmatic Developing solutions that work in the real world of business
- Dependable Bringing in results on time and exceeding expectations

And the small print:

Amanda holds a BSc and an MSc in psychology and occupational psychology and is a Chartered Psychologist. She is a British Psychological Society Registered Specialist in Test Use (Occupational) and so is able to use numerous psychometric tests to support development and selection initiatives. She also holds qualifications in cognitive-behavioural coaching and stress management from the Centre for Coaching.

Her extensive experience has spanned the full spectrum of DeWinton-Williams service offerings and a wide range of industry sectors. Much of her work has been multinational, involving clients from across the world.